Here we have the fantastic Kramer Pacer Classic Electric Guitar in stunning pearl white! The Kramer Pacer Classic offers incredible quality at an affordable price. It's solid mahogany body feels great to hold, and its maple neck offers great comfort when playing! The reviews and videos on this guitar speak for themselves as you'll see below. The guitar was bought for me as a birthday present, but unfortunately the increased size of my collection has forced the sale of a few...

It's literally been played only a handful of times and is in immaculate condition all over, except one tiny little mark on the neck (fret 8) that is barely noticeable and can't be seen by the camera. This doesn't affect playability whatsoever. I'm also throwing in a FREE gig bag!

Manufacturers Description

"A Classic Shredder, Revitalized for the 21st Century From its resonant solid mahogany body, to its American hard rock maple neck and fingerboard, the Pacer Classic packs the tonewoods needed to punch through the mix, while its dual Alnico V humbucking pickups provide everything from sweet, round, singing neck tones to snarly crunch and wail from the bridge position. With all the tonal bases covered, the Pacer Classic's playability is what nails it as a truly legendary shred machine. Its bolt-on 25 1/2" scale neck is carved to the wide, thin profile that the world's fastest players demand, and capped with a maple fingerboard with 22 jumbo frets and the 14" radius that gives you all the room you need to bend to extremes, without any dead spots or choking out.

And what would a world-class shred machine be without a top-flight whammy bar? For wobbles and divebombs, the Pacer Classic goes with the best: a Licensed Floyd Rose "double-locking" vibrato system with built-in fine tuners and a locking nut and tension bar up at the traditional Kramer "beak" headstock to keep it all tight and rockin'. And, while every other detail is spot-on to the Pacer circa 1983, Kramer has moved the truss-rod adjustment on the Pacer Classic to the headstock, making tweaks and set-up adjustments a breeze.

Check out a Kramer Pacer Classic today, and prepare to meet your inner shredmeister!

Neck Species

The neck of the Pacer Classic is constructed from solid American rock maple, an extremely strong, dense wood with a long history as a tonewood used for electric guitar necks.

Truss Rod

In one major improvement for the 2010, the truss rod adjustment nut has been moved to the headstock, making set ups and neck tweaks a breeze.

Neck Profile

The neck on the Pacer Classics are carved to a slim, wide profile, the most popular neck shape for shred-style rockers.

Joint

Kramer uses a "bolt-on" neck joint with four large wood screws and a four-hole bolt plate to firmly secure the neck.

Radius

The Pacer Classic has a 14" radius, which provides excellent playing ease and comfort, and avoids any dead spots or "choking out" of notes while bending strings.

Fingerboard Species

The Pacer Classic carries a fast and hard-wearing maple fingerboard.

Inlays

The Pacer Classic's fingerboard carries black dot inlays.

Frets

The Pacer Classic's fingerboard carries 22 jumbo frets, all immaculately dressed and polished, which contribute to the instrument's big tone and easy, bend-friendly playing feel.

Nut Width

The width of the nut on the Pacer Classic is approximately 1 11/16", which provides the neck room required for fast shred playing styles.

Tonal Characteristics

The solid maple neck and fingerboard and bolt-on construction all contribute to the Pacer Classic's superior tonal complexity and snappy, cutting response.

Body and Finish

The Pacer Classic is made from solid mahogany, a time-tested tonewood for use in electric guitars, and finished in your choice of Candy Red or Pearl White.

Pickups and Electronics

The Pacer Classic carries a pair of Alnico V humbucking pickups and a straightforward control array of individual
